GÁBOR PARTI

PROFILE

PhD candidate from Hungary working on the diffusion and history of spices and spice names across languages, using language technology and traditional philological research.

EDUCATION

PhD in East Asian Linguistics

The Hong Kong Polytechnic University (PolyU) | Hong Kong

Sep 2019 – ongoing

Corpus linguistics, computational linguistics, digital philology

Indonesian language course (Darmasiswa scholarship)

Yogyakarta State University (UNY) | Yogyakarta

Sep 2017 – Aug 2018

Indonesian language, culture, music; Javanese language

MA in Islamic Studies

Eötvös Loránd University (ELTE) | Budapest, Hungary

Sep 2014 – July 2017

Islamic literature, law, history, and culture; Arabic, Persian, Turkish, Urdu

Arabic language course (scholarship via the Republic of Tunisia)

Institut Bourguiba des Langues Vivantes (IBLV) | Tunis, Tunisia

Jan 2015 – June 2015

Modern Standard Arabic

BA in Korean Studies, Eastern Languages and Cultures

Eötvös Loránd University (ELTE) | Budapest, Hungary

Sep 2009 – Jan 2014

Finnish minor

BA in Arabian Studies, Eastern Languages and Cultures

Eötvös Loránd University (ELTE) | Budapest, Hungary

Sep 2009 – July 2014

East-Asian minor

✉ partigaborhk@gmail.com

🌐 https://partigabor.github.io/

📍 Hong Kong

SKILLS

Programming: Python
Frameworks: Hugo
Developer Tools: Git
Text Editing/Typesetting: LaTeX

LANGUAGES

Hungarian	Native
English	C2
Arabic	B1
Hindi	B1
Indonesian	B1

INTERESTS

Languages	Plants
Cooking	Maps & Flags
Coding	Black Metal